LOCAL REACTION to the news story and editorial in last week's issue reporting on the tremendous sales tax income cities derive from auto dealers was spotty.

If you recall, we did an analysis of the third quarter sales tax returns furnished by the State Board of Equalization. The startling revelation (to us anyway) was that automobile agencies provide the bulwark for financing city services.

And cities, such as Campbell, without these agencies are definitely handicapped, fiscally speaking.

We noted, for example, that Los Gatos had more than $6 million in sales of automobiles and allied services in just one quarter, compared to $57,000 in Campbell.

In terms of income, this means that the town of Los Gatos received $63,000 in sales tax income for that period (based on one per cent of the sale) and Campbell picked up $570.

We had known for a long time that automobile agencies played a major role in the sales tax picture but we hadn't realized it was that major.

It shocked us, really.

Fortunately we have such stalwarts on the local sales tax front as Western Gravel, Breuner's and the lumber yards. Otherwise the financial picture would be pretty dismal at the Campbell city hall.

SOME GUY wanted to know what we hoped to gain in presenting such a depressing report. "We have been bypassed by almost every type of auto agency in the past and probably will be in the future," he told us, "so why put salt in our wounds."

Another character, one of our buddies, facetiously "accused" us of getting ready to leave the newspaper field to become a car dealer. The story and editorial was just a build-up for this move, he crowed.

But a few others, who viewed with alarm this wide discrepancy in sales tax income, wondered, with us, if there was any solution to the problem.

And, if there was, what should be the approach?

We have no idea what should be done about this situation.

But we do think that, in face of the tremendous financial assistance that auto agencies offer cities, the city administration could justifably embark on an aggressive campaign to see what could be done about getting an agency within the city limits.

An auto row similar to the one in Los Gatos, of course, is beyond anyone's fondest dreams.

But just one small auto agency for big cars or a big auto agency for small cars or just any agency, period, for

Unification faces test at trustee elections

School district trustee elections that will take place on April 20 will have an added significance this year.

In addition to voting for trustees, voters in the Campbell Union High School District will be asked to decide the question of unification of the elementary districts that make up the high school district.

If the voters approve unification, it will mean that the Campbell, Moreland, Cambrian, Union and Burbank elementary districts that comprise the Campbell Union High School District will go under one jurisdiction.

Voters also will elect three trustees in the West Valley Junior College District, as the term of Bruce Allen, board president; Edmund C. Browne and Jack Armstrong, will expire.

Although voters of the entire junior college vote on the trustees, the trustees must be residents of specific areas. Allen and Browne represent area 1 (Los Gatos) and Armstrong area 2 (Santa Clara).

Three members of the high school board will be elected. Present members of the board whose terms expire this year are William Lloyd, William Murphy and Vernon Rutlen.

Three board members will also be named for the Campbell elementary district. The terms of Howard Guilbert, board president, Mrs. Eleanor Graham-Armstrong and John Merriell, are expiring.

Three will also be elected in Moreland. Terms are ending for F. C. Noe, Jr., Richard H. Penrose and Eugene Riordan. In Cambrian three are also to be elected. Terms expire for Norman B. Houge, Garland W. Bachmann and Jack Farnham.

Terms of all school board members are for four years.

Planners hold hearing on rezoning creek bed

Two public hearings were slated at the Planning Commission meeting last night relating to zoning regulations within the city limits.

The first hearing concerned the rezoning publicly owned property within the banks of Los Gatos Creek to "A" (agriculture) from their present zoning. This move is being made so that the creek land can be reserved for parks and recreational purposes. Parks and recreation uses are controlled by the city's "A" zone.

At the City Council's direction, a 10-acre parcel now owned by the Santa Clara Valley Water Conservation District, has been eliminated from the zone changing. The council's action followed a conference with the water district officials which resulted in the city acquiring a new park site from the district.

The planners also held a hearing on a proposed amendment to the city's ordinance which would prohibit the use of residential building in P-O (professional office) zones to be used for business purposes.

The planners also planned to set a public hearing on an amendment that would tighten controls in C-H (highway commercial) zoning.

At the last meeting of the Planning Commission, plans for a church building of First Christian Church, 1589 Pollard Road, were approved as were plans presented by Robert Zipse for an office building at 75 Cristich Lane.

The commission also approved the request of Fred Sahadi to revise his plans for a 250-unit apartment complex at 215-225 Union Ave. Sahadi asked to develop the property in two phases instead of one.

The planners also approved a six-month extension for Alec G. Land for the development of a shopping center at San Tomas and Campbell. The extension was subject to dedication of land for the improvement of Campbell Ave.

McLain, of 360 Sunberry, succeeds John Kelly as chairman of the Parks and Recreation Commission. Kelly, the first chairman of the newly-created Parks and Recreation Commission, resigned after moving outside the city.

McLain, long active in youth activities including Little League and Pony League affairs, was a member of the parks and advisory committee which became the first Parks and Recreation Commission of the city.

Mrs. Betty Grizzle is vice-chairman of the commission.

City honors grid stars

Banquet takes place tomorrow

Campbell's greatest gridiron stars in the history of the community, Craig Morton and Jack Schraub, will be honored guests tomorrow night (Thursday) at a civic banquet in the high school cafeteria.

The dinner is slated for 6:30 p.m. and tickets are $2 each. Committee members report that a capacity crowd of 300 is expected. Only a few tickets remained unsold at press time.

The community affair is jointly sponsored by the high school, the city and the Chamber of Commerce.

Eddie LeBaron, who gained All-American status while at College of Pacific and then went on to star on the football field professionally, will be the principal speaker. LeBaron has now given up his football cleats and is a practicing attorney.

Bud Foster, well known radio sports announcer, who covered the Cal games in which Morton and Schraub starred, will be the master of ceremonies.

The two local grid stars (Morton is the first Campbell High grad to win All-American honors) will be recipients of gifts from the Chamber of Commerce and the student body. In addition, the trustees of the high school district and the City Council have adopted special resolutions citing the performances of the two Campbell youths which has gained nationwide publicity for themselves and their community.

Ron Tharp, president-elect of the C. of C., will make the award for the chamber. Mayor Charles Rose will present the city's and Superintendent

District asks for library aid

Trustees of the Campbell Union (elementary) School District have applied for $50,000 in state funds for library assistance.

The administration staff was instructed to new state program which financially aids districts for library ask for funds under the facilities and library books.

The staff was directed to purchase additional books with the money received.

Application will be made for library allowances for Marshall Lane, Hazelwood, Capri, Castlemont, Forest Hill, Campbell, Monroe and Rolling Hills Schools. Under the new regulation all schools which built libraries since 1961 under state aid are entitled to an allowance.

Pursuing a positive program of strengthening its school libraries, Campbell Union School District already has purchased this year a little over an average of one book per child. The district has 75,376 books for an enrollment of 10,915 children, or an average of 6.9 books per pupil. It is expected this total can be brought up to seven books per pupil by the end of this school year.

Filling to begin soon on city's park site on creek

Work will begin soon on the preliminary development of Campbell's newest park site on Los Gatos Creek, City Manager Bob Stephens reported this week.

Stephens said that the Santa Clara Valley Water Conservation District, present owners of the seven-acre parcel, has agreed to allow the city to begin filling the area, although it will be some time before the city acquires title to the property.

The water district will provide the necessary fill from excavations for percolation ponds.

Stephens also said that officials of the county parks and recreation department also have agreed to cooperate in the development of the park site. The county department will present a land use plan to be followed in the filling of the parcel.

The seven-acre park-to-be is nothing but a "hole-in-the-ground" at the present time. The acreage is located next to several water district percolation ponds and when filled will provide extensive frontage along the ponds which park experts feel will increase the value of it as a recreational area.

In an agreement hammered out between SCVWD directors and members of the city council, the city will purchase the seven acre site for $2050 per acre.

Under the agreement, another 10-acre parcel will be sold by the district to the highest bidder and improved under strict city zoning regulations.

City Manager Stephens also said that he is hopeful that the city can move ahead soon in the first phase of the development of the city's corporation yard.

Editorial

City gets a park

The City of Campbell, under an agreement that is being worked out with the Santa Clara Valley Water Conservation District, will acquire a seven-acre parcel adjacent to the Los Gatos Creek which will be developed into a park.

The acquisition of this site by the city is a direct result of the controversy which developed between the city and the water district when the district announced that a 10-acre parcel of reclaimed land near the creek was not needed by the district and would be sold to the highest bidder.

The City felt that this land should be retained for parks but was in no position to raise the necessary money to pay the price asked by the district and the county would not help.

So the city started proceedings to rezone this land which would, in effect, force the price down.

Then the directors of the water conservation district and members of the city council go together and worked out an agreement that seems to be satisfactory to all concerned, including the citizens who foot the bill.

Around the conference table, it was learned that the controversial 10-acre parcel had many drawbacks as far as being developed into a park.

In the first place, it had been filled and compacted at considerable expense. The compacting was entirely unnecessary, if it was to be made into a park.

It was also explained that streets would have to be built as there was no access to it at present.

The 10-acres also have only a small frontage on the man-made lakes (percolation ponds). And water frontage is an important factor in the development of parks.

In other words, district officials pointed out, that although they were willing and eager to sell the property for park purposes (even at a greatly reduced price) they felt that there was more suitable land available for parks. The 10 acres would be more valuable to the citizens of the county and the city, if it were used for other than park purposes, provided the city exercised rigid controls as to the improvement.

Much more suitable for a future park site was a seven-acre parcel adjacent to the 10-acres, it was emphasized.

This parcel which, although right now was nothing but a "hole-in-the-ground," offered much more water frontage plus it was accessible to Dell Ave.

It could be obtained, it was explained, for $2050 per acre (compared to the $20,000 per acre for the other parcel) and the district would make the necessary fill available. District officials also added that city could practically draft its own terms as far as paying for the land was concerned.

The conclusion by city officials after all this was explained was that the seven-acre "hole-in-the-ground" was much superior for a park than the 10-acre site. So it was agreed to work out a deal.

Water conservation officials also agreed that any development on the 10-acre parcel would be subjected to rigid zoning controls by the city, for the water people assured city officials that they were just as anxious as the city to see the proper development on that site.

Another fact, also considered by all concerned, that 10-acre parcel when sold would go back on the tax rolls which would benefit both the district and the city.

We are pleased with the outcome of this conference of officials of two governmental agencies. We think everyone will benefit as a result.

But what bothers us is that the agreement wasn't worked out until war was almost declared.

We think this lack of communication and cooperation between governmental agencies is ridiculous and costly.

Fortunately in this case, things worked out rather well. But why was it necessary to almost have a knock-down-drag out fight to gain objectives.

Two concerts at West Valley

A wide range of musical offerings, from gospels and spirituals to classical masterworks, will be presented to concertgoers at West Valley College on January 21 and 29.

The famed "Voices of Inspiration", Sacramento's widely acclaimed 100-voice youth choir, will offer a concert free to the public on January 21. On the following week-end, the 65-piece Fine Arts Symphony of San Jose will present Beethoven's Fourth Piano Concerto in G Major and the Symphonie Fantastique by Berlioz. Larry Foster of Hollywood will conduct the orchestra and John Delevoryas, associate professor of music at San Jose State College, will appear as guest pianist for the concerto.

SPEAKING OF CARS (we sure were, weren't we?), it's too bad that the CAMPBELL car is not being made any more. That would be a natural for our community.

As a matter of fact, not being a car buff, we didn't know there ever was a CAMPBELL car until we read a news release sent out by the California State Automobile Association.

Did you?

The release reported that the "Campbell" was built between 1916 and 1921.

We quote: "The colorful history of the automobiles in America began at the turn of the century. Since that time, well over 5,000 different makes have been manufactured in the United States...

"One car, the Campbell, was built between 1916 and 1921.

"There were also several famous cars which had the same names as California cities. These included the Auborn, Maxwell, Oakland and Winton.

"Most of these cars, like the Campbell, have long since disappeared from the scene. At present, there are only three cars still in production whose names correspond to California cities.

"They are the Lincoln, Imperial, and the Plymouth."

Far be it from us to question this report of the California State Automobile Association.

But the way the automobile manufacturers are labeling their cars now, we bet some of those highfaluting sounding names correspond with those of cities.

We are not much help, however, in that store.

We are from the old school. Today, we can't tell the players without a program.

Such names as Tempest, Catalina, Galaxy, Bonneville, etc., don't mean much to us. We don't even know half the time what firm makes 'em.

We grew up in a Ford-Chevie-Plymouth community.

When another brand of car made its appearance in our town, there were a lot of embarrassing questions asked. The main one was "wonder where he got the dough?"

Life was a lot simpler then, in every way.

JACK DAWSON, local attorney and outgoing president of the Chamber of Commerce, was counsel for one of the defendents in the recent long-drawn out attempted- murder trial in San Jose.

If the reports we read of the trial are any criteria, we can well imagine that it was quite an experience for Jack.

Even Perry Mason would have had trouble with that one.

MAKE THIS 10-SECOND BATTERY CHECK TODAY
Raise the hood of your car and look at the battery. A green or white formation around the battery or terminals means sulphation and sulphation means your car's battery is dying. You need VX-6 immediately, or you will soon have to spend money for a new battery. If there is no sulphation, you can prevent it by adding VX-6 now — it takes just a minute to increase the life of your battery by years. VX-6 is backed by an unconditional money-back guarantee, for 6 or 12 volt batteries.

Every working day this year, 7600 men and more than a million dollars go to work on new construction to serve PG&E customers.

That many men will work all year long at jobs supported by PG&E's $275 million expansion program for 1965.

That amount of money, invested every day in new equipment and materials, as well as in payrolls, becomes a valuable part of the whole state's economy.

Moreover, the new structures and facilities become valuable additions to local tax rolls, helping support local schools, hospitals, police and fire departments. Of course, all this new construction doesn't slow us down one bit in performing our biggest job, around the clock, supplying millions of Californians with the gas and electricity they need.

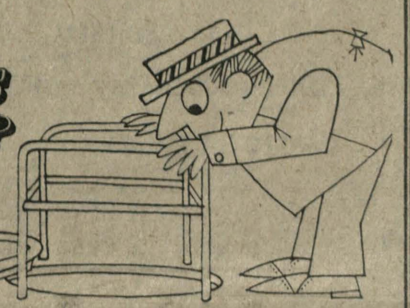
WHAT'S DOING?



Just about everyone has heard or read stories about telephone Operators helping avert disasters, saving lives and property. But, it's the little things that really show the scope of the Operators' helpfulness—like the three teenage boys who called an Operator to find out how to make French toast (and were told)... or the Operator who helped an Air Force Chaplain locate an airmas's father who was in an unknown hospital. It happens every day. Your Campbell Operator is more than a helper—she's a friend.

When a telephone supplyman found a dove nesting in a reel of cable, he spread the word -DO NOT DISTURB. Mother and offspring are doing fine!

Did you know that our telephone engineers use cosmetics, of all things, to help keep phones working right? For instance, rouge to polish fine metal parts, toothpaste to clean switchboards, orangewood stick to probe electronic equipment, and a primary ingredient of lipstick is used as a lubricant. Whatever it takes, good service for you is our goal.

I've heard that the average person uses a telephone 8,760 hours in his lifetime. No doubt about it, telephoning is an important part of living!

Each year we see many communication changes. And last year was no exception. There was the first underseas telephone cable between America and Asia. And live global television via Telstar II. Also Picturephone see-as-you-talk experimental service between three cities. Sure, it was a big year. But you know, telephone people prefer to look ahead—which means continuing to bring you even better service in 1965.

Truckload of supplies aids Hoopa Indians

Indians located at the Hoopa Valley Indian Reservation near Trinity who were flooded out in the recent rainstorm received two van loads of food, clothing and blankets from the Lt. Byron C. Lanphear Auxiliary, Veterans of Foreign Wars 6305 of Campbell recently.

The project was under the direction of Mrs. Milton Kenyon, Mrs. Ella Lanphear and Mrs. Ona Chubb. The van was donated by Stevens Music Store in Willow Glen. Charles Chubb and Alan Haydis drove the van. Milton Kenyon accompanied them to distribute the supplies to the Indians. Two and a half tons of food, clothing and bedding were contributed by residents of Santa Clara County. Members of the Post and Auxiliary did the collecting and sorting and packing. Anyone wishing to contribute to this worthy project are asked to call either Mrs. Ellen Lanphear, 377-7821 or Mrs. Faye Kenyon, 264-8851 as another load will be leaving in the near future.

THAT FEMININE TOUCH

By Dolores Keywood

I remember, not too long ago, mothers asking me how old their daughters should be, before being allowed to wear lipstick. This seemed to be what all the young girls dreamed about.

The question I'm asked frequently nowadays is, "how can I get my daughter to wear lipstick?"

Girls, even in their late teens prefer not only to go without lipstick but want to create an even paler effect by wearing a light colored fluid foundation over their lips.

The emphasis teenagers place on eye make up, however, has gone to the other extreme. Obviously many mothers either don't have enough influence over the youngsters or they lack the tact required to get their point across. In many cases it is a matter of being uninformed or not interested enough to learn "whys, whens and hows" of cosmetics.

This column is not long enough to answer all of your questions nor am I equipped to solve all of the problems posed to me. But I can give you a few helpful hints and some suggestions you might make to that "could be, teenage, Femme Fatale" you have at home.

The first thing you must remember, is that most teenagers feel as though their parents know absolutely nothing. This is a very common conclusion among the "younger" set.

If you are a modern mother who looks the part, you automatically have an advantage, but still can't imagine that you know what's "IN" for teenagers.

If you've been labeled "An old fashioned Mom", you may have the deep respect of your teenager until it comes to wardrobe, cosmetics, hair styles, grooming or dating.

The prime requisite, of course, is current knowledge of the above subjects. You must be able to qualify a statement like, "you should wear lipstick." If your teenager feels she looks better without it and wants to know why she should wear it, your answer might be "you look better with it" or "you look too pale without it." But with a little knowledge on your part, you might tell her that a little contrast is more becoming or skin blemishes are less obvious when a little color is used on the lips.

You will have to convince her that you know what you're talking about, and the only way to do this is to know your subject, whether it means reading all the current magazines, attending in school functions or consulting an authority.

But even after you have all this information at your fingertips you must be tactful and considerate.

Diplomacy is required if your teenager is to have confidence in you.

For additional details on the aforementioned subjects, call me at 378-8180.

GYPSY RHAPSODY is the theme for the annual International Folk Dance Festival on January 23 and 24 at the San Jose Civic Auditorium.

It will be attended by dancers from all over Northern California; they will be dressed in the colorful, authentic costumes of many nations and perform the dances of most countries of the world. There will be exhibition dancing of professional level both Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon, plus a good program of international folk dancing for everyone, including some square dancing. Anyone interested is welcome to attend, free of charge, to participate in the dancing or as a spectator.

Activities begin on Saturday, January 23, at 8 p.m., with general folk dancing for all in the Main Auditorium; next door in McCabe Hall a Balkan Dance Party starts at 9 p.m., with an after-party beginning at midnight. On Sunday, January 24, the Festival opens at 1:30 p.m. and closes at 5:30 p.m. Also planned for Saturday afternoon at 1:30 p.m. is a Teachers'-Dancers' Institute in McCabe Hall where two German dances, an American dance, a Polish dance, and a Hungarian dance will be taught by Millie von Konsky of Oakland and Ned Gault of San Jose.

AT WEST VALLEY COLLEGE-- The Serenaders, well-known TV, radio and concert male quartet, will be the second offering of the Los Gatos Community Concert Association in the auditorium of the West Valley College, Friday evening, January 22, at 8:15 p.m. Membership cards for this concert and the other two remaining concerts will be available in the lobby of the auditorium. The members of the quartet are Ralph Neilsen, tenor, Ralph McFarlane, tenor, Marc Hood, baritone and Lawrence Gray, basso.

YMCA PRESIDENT-- Harold A. (Bud) Beaudoin, a Saratoga real estate broker, will be installed as president of the YMCA on Thursday, January 21. He has been a member of the YMCA board since 1958 and is a former second vice-president. Other officers and board members will also be installed at the same time at the Central Branch YMCA, 1717 The Alameda, San Jose. Alvin Long, president of the board of trustees, will be the installing officer.

College trustees appoint 15 to district advisory group

A 15-member advisory committee including two from Campbell, of business, industrial, professional and government leaders--a committee which may be expanded later as the need arises --has been appointed by the Board of Trustees of West Valley College.

Prime purpose of the committee, according to Bruce M. Allen, Board chairman, is "to study and react to problems and issues facing the board and to give their advice and counsel on those matters."

"These men, all leaders in their respective fields, have accepted their appointments and have agreed to give us their time and good judgment without any compensation except for the grateful appreciation of our district," Allen said. "We think they deserve a lot of credit."

The committee will have no regular meeting dates but will meet periodically as the need arises, Allen said.

The complete committee list follows:

Emerson M. Arends, president of Campbell Lumber Company, a member of the governing board of the Campbell Union High School District, and one of the early leaders in a movement to form the West Valley Joint Junior College District.

Emmette T. Gatewood, Jr., a Los Gatos realtor, a member of the board of directors of both the state and national realtor's associations.

Mayor John Lincoln of Los Gatos, who also has extensive business interests in the area.

Leon Poe, owner of the Merry Mart in Santa Clara, chairman of an earlier citizen's advisory committee, and a leader in formation of the district.

Mayor Charles Rose of Campbell, who also has extensive business interests in the area.

Don R. Von Raesfeld, city manager of Santa Clara.

Local men on hospital board

Noel J. Brown, Campbell executive, will continue as secretary of The Good Samaritan Hospital of Santa Clara Valley, as the result of elections at the annual meeting last week.

Henry A. Oldenkamp, FMC official, is president. State Senator Clark L. Bradley is vice president. William H. Mauel, Wells Fargo Bank manager in Los Gatos, is treasurer.

Hospital beds lent to needy

Disabled War Veterans Salvage Shops announced this week they have received some 40 hospital beds for its "lend a bed" program.

The beds were donated by Saratoga antique dealer, Clarence Neal. "Lend a bed" is DWV's program to lend wheel-chairs, beds and other sick room supplies to needy persons who want them for home use. Call 296-2553 for information.

Tax collector sells parcels

Louis A. Lopes, County Tax Collector and redemption officer, recently held his annual public auction of tax delinquent properties, a total of ten unimproved parcels, bringing a total of $3,480.00.

On June 30, 1964, a total of 43 tax delinquent parcels were deeded to the State, six of which were small strips and sold to the Cities of San Jose, Santa Clara, Palo Alto and the Flood Control District. Six small strips of tax delinquent parcels were also sold to adjoining property owners on a sale by application.

Of the 43 parcels which were five years delinquent on June 30, there were several residences which owners redeemed by paying all back taxes; three of which had mortgages by private parties not knowing of the tax delinquency.

The fact that there are only 10 unimproved parcels left to auction in a county of this size reflects, Lopes said, on the good realty market and economy in this County.
